Issued October 2, 2025

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q1. We assume that either the architect or the MEP firm can be the prime on this project.

A1. Yes, as long as the firm meets the design requirements.

Q2. Can the architect submit as the prime and also be a consultant on a team in which the MEP is the prime?

A2. Yes, the architect provides 3-5 roofing projects and the MEP provides 3-5 similar scope projects.

Q3. Can MEP firm be on several teams as the consultant?

A3. Yes.

Q4. In Addendum 4 question 24 asks about design submissions to which the answer was "A Design Development Submission as well as a Construction Document Submission" which would be a total of two design submissions. However, question 29 asks about 3 design submissions - Design Development, Construction Drawings and Bid Set to which the answer was "Yes". Can you clarify, do you want 2 or 3 design submissions?

A4. There are two state submissions: Design Development & Construction Documents. The Bid Set is not a state submission; however, HCPS needs a hard copy of the Plans & Specifications.
